ELEVATING REAL ESTATE STANDARDS
THROUGH EDUCATION
AND INTEGRITY

J FUSTOLO E OF SOLDERA PROPERTIES

With a career spanning over three decades, Joe Fustolo has expertly navigated the ebbs and flows of the complex real estate market and actively reshaped it, imparting wisdom and fostering a community of dedicated professionals. Joe's success can be attributed to his ability to manage across many areas expertly, including market knowledge and client relations, and to always lead with unparalleled ethical conduct. From his humble beginnings as a REALTOR® in 1991 to the helm of Soldera Properties today, Fustolo's journey exemplifies a commitment to service, innovation, and continual growth.

Joe Fustolo's entry into real estate was influenced by sage advice from a wise couple: "Never worry about money. Focus on giving the highest level of service to your clients and customers, and the money will follow." This foundational insight and belief in prioritizing service over profit guided his early career and how he approached building relationships with his clientele. This philosophy laid the groundwork for building a business defined by an unwavering dedication to client satisfaction and quality experiences.

After graduating from the University of Oregon, Joe Fustolo swiftly transitioned into the real estate arena, dedicating himself to enhancing his clientele's buying and selling experiences. However, his aspirations transcended individual transactions, driven by a desire for a more significant impact and a vision of a more empowered real estate community, which led him to establish Soldera Properties in 2008. Central to Joe's vision for Soldera Properties is a commitment to equipping REALTORS® with the tools and support necessary for success. Recognizing the industry's evolving landscape, he emphasizes the importance of embracing technology and continuous education to ensure agents can be successful and efficient while providing the highest level of service to their clients.

Joe is determined to raise the bar regarding knowledge, professionalism, and growth of all REALTORS®, not just the brokers at Soldera Properties. His belief in elevating the entire real estate category is so great that twelve years ago, Joe launched a private Facebook group called Masters in Real Estate that now boasts an audience of over 9K members. This online community strives to create more cooperation between real estate professionals by sharing best practices and knowledge to strengthen the industry overall. Following that success, he launched The Portland Real Estate Podcast, where he covers important topics such as rebuilding a real estate business in a new market, conquering client retention, and tackling more technical subject areas such as finding the best applications for AI and understanding how AI can help real estate professionals. Joe's podcast can be found everywhere you listen to music or other podcasts, allowing him to quickly get information to a broad audience.

Through platforms like "The Portland Real Estate Podcast" and the "Masters in Real Estate" Facebook group, Fustolo catalyzes professional development and fosters a culture of knowledge-sharing and collaboration.

Yet, amid the strides toward progress, Fustolo remains cognizant of the challenges that can plague the industry. Joe acknowledges that due to the low barrier to becoming an agent, many do not take their role as seriously as they should.

NEVER WORRY ABOUT MONEY. FOCUS ON GIVING THE HIGHEST LEVEL OF SERVICE TO YOUR CLIENTS AND CUSTOMERS, AND THE MONEY WILL FOLLOW.

He advocates the need for a higher standard of professionalism, for agents to always strive to be their best, keep learning, and engage in technology. Despite these challenges, he believes that through collective growth the industry can better its reputation worldwide, echoing John F. Kennedy's sentiment that "a rising tide lifts all boats."

Looking to the future, Joe is practicing what he preaches by focusing on the growth of his own company and continuing to be a mentor to his peers. Joe has been fortunate to have built a career around helping buyers and sellers achieve their real estate goals, and he's eager to extend this principle to agents who operate at Soldera Properties. In Joe's business, he's found success by following these simple principles:

- Always be learning
- Never compromise your ethics
- Collaborate versus compete, there is enough business for everyone
- Under promise and over deliver
- Show empathy for others
- Never miss an opportunity to say "thank you"

In addition to his professional endeavors, Fustolo's commitment to philanthropy and community engagement shines brightly. From supporting veterans through initiatives like K9's for Warriors to championing causes for foster children and families, he exemplifies a spirit of compassion and generosity.

Beyond the confines of his real estate career, Fustolo finds fulfillment in family, outdoor adventures, and the pursuit of happiness. Celebrating thirty years of marriage with his wife Sara and reveling in the successes of his daughters

Julianna and Gabi, Fustolo embodies a holistic approach to life—one that prioritizes personal well-being alongside professional achievement.

As Fustolo sets his sights on expanding Soldera Properties and nurturing a community of exceptional REALTORS®, his goal of continuous improvement remains steadfast. Upholding principles of integrity, empathy, and gratitude, he envisions a future where collaboration triumphs over competition, and success is measured not only in monetary gains but in the positive impact on lives and communities.

In an industry often characterized by competition and fleeting transactions, Joe Fustolo stands out as a testament to the enduring values of service, education, and ethical conduct. Through his leadership and dedication to making real and authentic connections, he continues to elevate real estate standards, leaving an indelible mark on both his profession and those he serves.

▶ agent spotlight

Staying ahead of the curve is essential for success in the competitive real estate market. For David Caldwell, a seasoned real estate broker and Tom Ferry coach with over a decade of experience, continuous learning and growth are the cornerstone of his career.

In 2012, David launched Hillshire Realty Group, a dynamic team of brokers that have successfully sold over 1,500 homes throughout the Portland metro area. Through his success, David discovered that he had a great passion for helping other real estate professionals improve their skills. He understood that agents didn't need to work harder, but they did need to work smarter. "Working 80 hours a week isn't cool or a badge of honor, rather a public display of inefficiency."

In 2017, David found his second calling as a business coach and speaker for Tom Ferry, the world's leading real estate coach. David leverages his knowledge and experience to foster education and skills development in sales, marketing, and leadership. Working closely with some of America's top real estate teams, as ranked by Real Trends and The Wall Street Journal, David shares insights and strategies to help agents navigate and grow in the ever-changing housing market.

As a coach and speaker, David relishes the opportunity to positively impact the industry beyond his local market. "Watching people take ideas they heard at a conference from me and implement them, and hearing about the positive change, is amazing," he shares.

However, David also recognizes the real estate industry's challenges, particularly in consumer education and experience. "There is a huge lack of education around articulating the opportunities and challenges that come with being a home buyer and home seller," he explains. "The failure rate and low standards in this industry are also real problems that lower our credibility with the consumer."

Driven by a desire to create a better reputation for industry professionals through education and advisory strategies, David is committed to helping great real estate professionals navigate and excel in the market. "The consumer deserves a better experience," he asserts.

Reflecting on his experience with Tom Ferry, David emphasizes its profound impact on his personal and professional growth. "Over the past six years, working with Tom has been critical to my growth as a dad, coach, speaker, and leader," says David. "More than a mentor or boss, I look up to Tom like a big brother."

As David continues to inspire and empower real estate professionals through his coaching and leadership, his dedication to excellence and commitment to positive change serve as a beacon of inspiration for agents looking to hone their skills and thrive in an ever-evolving industry. With David Caldwell as a guide, the path to success in real estate becomes clearer, and the possibilities for growth and fulfillment are limitless.

RUBEN ISAI'S

Real Estate
Journey

the rise

Born with a desire for autonomy and entrepreneurship, Ruben's journey into real estate was sparked, like many, by an introduction to Robert Kiyosaki's book "Rich Dad Poor Dad." It ignited the flame that launched various bootstrapped start-ups for Ruben, including a real estate wholesaling company and a construction/handyman dispatching business. Nothing quite stuck, however, like the real estate service industry.

"I am typically more extroverted and I enjoyed building relationships with people as this was very comfortable and familiar to me. I just had to be myself!" said Ruben in an interview. "Something I particularly look forward to is connecting with Veterans. I appreciate the opportunity to hear their stories and just be there for them. It's a lot of fun and you get to meet some amazing individuals."

Success does not look the same for everyone. For some, it's a global brand with their name on it, for others, it's running a marathon in less than 4 hours! And for many, it's raising well-rounded, independent, and healthy children. Regardless, success is an act most often fueled by a lot of passion, hard work, and obsessive consistency. For someone like Ruben Isai, these qualities are a way of life. From competitive athletics in and outside of the gym to a career in the military and now to the world of business and real estate service, it's just a different canvas to paint on using the same methods as the successful ones before him.

For Ruben, being a Realtor is more than just facilitating property transactions, it's about making a meaningful impact on the lives of his clients and community. Ruben's business centers on "Treating others the same way you would want to be treated." He also believes that "a business built on trust and genuine service doesn't need to worry about finding customers for long."

Outside of his real estate business, Ruben is a husband and a father of two. If the Isai family isn't outdoors in their Toyota 4Runner, they are serving in their community church as they are a family of musicians as well! They love the North West and don't see themselves relocating anytime soon!
