RURAL LIFE GOALS WITHIN REACH.

There are a million reasons why people dream about rural living. Our job is to make those dreams a reality. But what sets us apart as a cooperative is that our customers aren't just borrowers—they're owners.

That means we can offer benefits other lenders typically aren't able to like our Conversion Program*. A hassle-free process for customers to convert their rate without refinancing or extending the term of their mortgage. Providing educational resources to make sure our customers have all the right information they need to make the right decisions. And a commitment to the communities we share through volunteering, donations, and supporting local food banks. Learn more at Rural1st.com.

Tammy Thome

She Got Into Real Estate to Spend More Time with Family!

“They’re only little once.”

As any parent will tell you, time spent with their little ones is precious. Why spend all your time away from your family? That’s exactly why Tammy Thome decided to make the leap to real estate back in 1997. Putting family first was essential to this loving mother.

For her, real estate was never just about the numbers—it was about freedom. Almost three decades ago, she took a leap of faith, trading in her corporate career for one that allowed her to be more present for the people who mattered most. With two young kids at home and a third on the way, she knew something had to give. That’s when her husband suggested something that would change the course of her life: real estate. “He said, ‘I think you’d be a great real estate agent,’” Tammy recalls. With encouragement from her husband and a trusted friend in the industry, she jumped in—and never looked back.

Now in her 27th year, Tammy has built a thriving business in the Oxford and surrounding areas, closing over 1,000 homes in her career and doing 11.6 million in volume last year alone. But ask her what she’s proudest of, and she’ll tell you without hesitation: “When you get a referral from a past client, that’s the best compliment you can get.” For Tammy, repeat and referral business isn’t just a goal—it’s a reflection of the heart she puts into her work.

From Mergers to Moves

Before real estate, Tammy was climbing the corporate ladder at Cincinnati Bell, starting as an executive assistant and eventually rising to a research analyst in the mergers and acquisitions department. “I was there for about ten years,” she shares. But after her third child was born, Tammy made the decision to pivot. “I wanted to be more available for my kids and my family. Real estate gave me that flexibility.” And while the hours may be unpredictable, the rewards are personal—and lasting.

Ohio Proud

Born and raised in Oxford, Ohio, Tammy graduated from Talawanda High School and earned an associate degree from Miami University. It’s also where she met her husband, Alan, to whom she’s been married since 1986. Today, their close-knit family includes three children: Joshua (37), Austin (32), and Samantha (29). Joshua is married to Lindsey (Tammy’s transaction coordinator and licensed agent). He and Lindsey also have the first grandchild, 5-year-old Walter, who keeps the family laughing. Austin is a licensed agent with a passion for bass fishing. As for Samantha, she is a former real estate agent who’s now pursuing a CRNA degree in nursing anesthesiology. Samantha is married to John, and together they have a sweet daughter, Millie, age 3.

Family remains the cornerstone of Tammy’s life. Her 87-year-old father still lives nearby, and they attend church together at St. Matthew’s Lutheran, where they serve on the church council. “We see each other often—once or twice a week,” Tammy says. “We’re very close.”

These days, Tammy isn’t just selling homes—she’s growing something even bigger. As the co-owner of the new satellite office for Keller Williams Seven Hills (The Greater Oxford Group), Tammy is passionate about mentoring new agents and giving back. “We’re really focused on community outreach,” she shares. From hosting events and food trucks to coaching agents just getting started, Tammy finds joy in lifting others up.

“In this crazy industry, be efficient, be available, and above all—be real.”

She still works closely with her past clients, especially seniors who are downsizing. Helping them into their next chapter is something she truly enjoys.

Words of Wisdom

When asked what advice she'd give to rising agents or fellow professionals, Tammy doesn't hesitate: "Be honest—with yourself and with your clients. The truth may not always be what they want to hear, but doing the right thing matters." She believes in hard work, trust, and staying true to your instincts. "In this crazy industry, be efficient, be available, and above all—be real."

And her favorite quote? A fitting mantra for a woman whose actions speak volumes: "Actions speak louder than words."

Family, Fun, and Fun Facts

When she's not showing homes or guiding new agents, you can find Tammy outside enjoying life on her 15-acre property in Hanover Township. She and Alan grow a large garden, do canning in the summer, and enjoy rounds of golf in their mixed couples' league. They also bowl in a league and travel frequently with family. "We love being outside, spending time by the pool, and being with our kids and grandkids," she says.

One thing many people don't know about Tammy? Her childhood was filled with horses. She began showing horses at the age of six, traveling all over for competitions in Western horsemanship and English equitation. "I loved it," she recalls. Competition taught her discipline, dedication, and commitment—things that have served her well in real estate. She even won at the Ohio State Fair and brought home more than a few trophies.

That competitive drive is still within Tammy today, causing deals to land at the closing table. She fights for her clients, negotiating for them, and helps first-time homebuyers achieve the dream of homeownership.

Final Thoughts

Tammy Thome isn't just a top-producing real estate professional—she's a force for good, a family-first trailblazer, and a mentor helping the next generation find their footing. From horses to houses, her journey has been nothing short of inspiring. And putting family first? That's priceless.

IF YOU'VE GOT A ROOF ISSUE, WIRING WORRIES, OR AN OLD HOUSE WITH SOME 'CHARACTER'—DON'T CALL THE 1-800 NUMBER. "CALL YOUR COUSIN VINNY," SAYS VINCENT PFIRMAN.

At Firehouse Insurance, they're not just in the business of policies—they're in the business of people. As "First Responders in Protecting Your Future," this team doesn't cut corners or settle for cookie-cutter solutions. They dig deep to find the right coverage at the best price—especially when it comes to real estate.

From their humble beginnings in 2020 in a historic firehouse in Mariemont to their current growth in Blue Ash and expansion into Dayton, Firehouse Insurance has been embraced by the community—and by professionals who know what it takes to get deals done.

Real Estate Is Their Niche

"We're not trying to write every policy under the sun," says Vincent, Senior Partner and Executive Agent. "We focus. Property is our thing. I'd consider us property specialists, especially with investors."

That focus pays off. Firehouse handles hundreds of home closings, rental properties, and light commercial spaces each year. They know how to build strategic insurance bundles—sometimes 20 to 30 properties at a time—using an arsenal of carriers to deliver value and efficiency.

"We've got dozens of carriers for property coverage," Vincent says. "That gives us the ability to customize protection for investors and still save them money. Our vast majority of business is investor-specific—from restaurants to one- to four-family homes, and everything in between."

More Carriers. More Coverage. Less Stress.

Firehouse Insurance currently works with 35+ carriers, giving clients

“WE GUARANTEE THAT PEOPLE GET THE BEST DEAL EVERY TIME. THAT’S WHY WE’RE GROWING—BECAUSE WE DO THINGS RIGHT.”

“Insurance should never kill the deal,” Vincent says. “Our job is to make people’s lives easier, keep the process moving, and deliver real value along the way.”

With over 738 five-star Google reviews and counting, Firehouse Insurance has clearly earned the trust of its clients. They’ve helped everyone from homeowners to horseback riding companies—offering customized coverage, clear communication, and unbeatable service.

“We guarantee that people get the best deal every time,” says Vincent. “That’s why we’re growing—because we do things right.”

So next time you’re staring down a tricky property issue, remember, don’t call the 1-800 number. Call Firehouse. Call your cousin Vinny at 513-940-4892.

Insurance Advisors bringing valuable insight to every client interaction. Supporting the operations is Brittany Watts-Osterfeld, Operations Manager, along with Insurance Advisors Dennise Parrish and Mike McCoy.

And of course, Firehouse wouldn’t be complete without their beloved office mascots. Sir Dukington proudly holds the title of Captain of Barkerations, and King Louie rules as Chief of Cuddles—proving that the team takes their relationships seriously, but not themselves.

“We all love what we do—and working with each other,” says Ken. “It’s about helping people and making sure they have the best deal. We’re relationship-based, not carrier-based—and that puts our clients first.”

Coverage That Closes the Deal
Whether it’s a single-family home, a one-to four- family rental portfolio, or a five-unit commercial building, Firehouse Insurance is built to help professionals move from contract to closing with confidence.

access to one of the broadest networks in the market. That flexibility is critical in today’s unpredictable insurance landscape—especially for agents and homebuyers navigating changing guidelines.

“With all the issues around insurance and roofs, real estate agents are feeling it,” Vincent says. “Carriers are pulling out of the market unless roofs are under 10 years old. It’s causing real problems. But we have options. We can almost always find a competitive fit—even for tricky houses.”

Trusted Partners in the Transaction
Where Firehouse really shines is in helping real estate professionals streamline their closings. They work directly with real estate agents and lenders—often consulting before a deal is even under contract.

“When a real estate agent calls and says, ‘I’m trying to close on this property—here’s what’s going on.’ We coach them through it,” Vincent explains. “We’re not just here to write a policy—we’re here to find the path of least resistance to the closing table.”

Real estate agents often have their trusted go-to photographer, inspector, and lender—but the insurance piece can feel disconnected.

“That’s where we come in,” Vincent says. “We want to be on their team. When we make life easier, the whole transaction runs smoother—and we gain a lifelong client.”

Family-Driven. Community-Focused.
Founded by Managing Partner Ken Schaub, Firehouse Insurance began as a passion project and quickly grew into a full-service powerhouse. Ken works alongside his wife, Chelsae Schaub, who serves as Senior Partner and Executive Agent. Together, they’ve built a dedicated and tight-knit team that operates more like family than coworkers.

The leadership team also includes Vincent Pfirrmann and Tanner Journey, both Senior Partners and Executive Agents, who help guide the agency with deep industry expertise. Sam Weddle and Landon Watts are valued Associate Partners, while Jon Finucan and Allison Greulich Smith serve as Senior

Amy Vilardo

FROM THE COURTROOM TO THE CLOSING TABLE!

WRITTEN BY ELIZABETH MCCABE

“If you’re going to be a bear, be a grizzly.” For Amy Vilardo, this isn’t just a motivational quote—it’s a life philosophy. From her days navigating discovery documents to closing real estate deals, Amy has always gone all in. And that tenacity is paying off.

Amy became a licensed real estate agent in March 2021, and in just four short years, she has closed 118 transactions totaling $37 million. Last year alone, she completed 33 transactions worth $9.88 million, just shy of the $10 million mark. That kind of momentum makes it clear—Amy Vilardo is one to watch.

But real estate is hardly her first career. Amy spent 15 years as a paralegal specializing in personal injury and medical malpractice, a job she genuinely loved. “I’ve loved all my jobs,” she reflects. After becoming a mom, she shifted gears and began working as a court transcriptionist, transcribing hearings from the Clermont County Municipal and Domestic Relations Court while her kids were little. That led her to launch her own court reporting business, which she ran for several years.

Her civic-minded spirit then took her into politics. Amy served an impressive 16 years on the Milford City Council, including two terms as mayor and two as vice mayor. “If it paid more than $6,000 a year, I’d still be the mayor,” she jokes. “I do believe change is good. As much as I loved that job, I knew it was time to go.”

When the small, family-owned business where she worked as an administrator and property manager took a hit during COVID, a friend—who was also a real estate agent and a firefighter like her husband—called her out of the blue. “He said, ‘I don’t know why you’re not a real estate agent. You’re so connected to the city and the chamber.’” That phone call sparked something. And with her kids grown and gone, Amy took the leap.

She went from political podiums to open houses, earning her real estate license in just three months. “It was a risk. No guaranteed paycheck. But I was all in.” She hustled hard, driving to Dayton for $60,000 homes just for the experience. “I chased every single lead that came across my desk. Nothing was beneath me. I wanted to learn.”

Social media became her secret weapon. “It’s 90% of my business,” she shares. “When people say, ‘I don’t need to ask how you’re doing, I see you all over Facebook.’ To me, that means

I’m staying visible and on top of mind, and in this business that makes all the difference.

Milford Proud

Born and raised in Milford, Amy still calls it home. She’s a Milford High School and University of Cincinnati graduate, and she’s deeply proud of her roots. “All three of my careers—law, politics, and real estate—share a common thread: helping people. I don’t know where I got it. My parents weren’t like that. But I’ve always had a strong desire to serve.”

Amy and her husband Ralph have a beautifully blended family with four adult children: Olivia, Max, Marissa, and Ava. “They’re all doing incredibly well. We’re very blessed,” she says. Ralph just retired as a firefighter/paramedic from Miami Township after 36 years of service. He now works as a code enforcement officer for the City of Loveland, and keeps plenty of irons in the fire.

Fun fact? Amy and Ralph are the only married couple in Milford history to both serve as mayors. And Amy has been honored with the key to the city—one of just three people to receive that distinction. “It’s the highest honor. I’m incredibly proud of it.” Her husband continues that legacy of service by returning as a current council member. The vitality and growth of Milford mean a great deal to both of them, and they are committed to helping it thrive.

Outside of real estate, Amy and Ralph love to golf, travel, and cheer on their beloved Cincinnati Reds with season tickets in hand. They’re passionate about giving back to local nonprofits, including the Valley View Foundation, Milford Miami Ministries, and the Milford Historical Society. “It’s important to give where you live,” she says with conviction.

Top Tips

Her advice to up-and-coming agents? “You have to be present. Show up. Make yourself known. Networking is essential—if people don’t know who you are, then you’re simply not on their radar. You can spend your time chasing leads, or you can focus on building a strong brand and authentic presence that naturally attracts them. When people connect with who you are, the right clients find you.”

For Amy Vilardo, real estate is about much more than buying and selling homes. It’s about people, relationships, and showing up for them—grizzly bear style.
