RURAL LIFE GOALS WITHIN REACH.

There are a million reasons why people dream about rural living. Our job is to make those dreams a reality. But what sets us apart as a cooperative is that our customers aren't just borrowers—they're owners.

That means we can offer benefits other lenders typically aren't able to like our Conversion Program*. A hassle-free process for customers to convert their rate without refinancing or extending the term of their mortgage. Providing educational resources to make sure our customers have all the right information they need to make the right decisions. And a commitment to the communities we share through volunteering, donations, and supporting local food banks. Learn more at Rural1st.com.

LEAH SLICER

FAITHFUL.
FEARLESS.

WRITTEN BY ELIZABETH MCCABE

“My husband and I started flipping houses that we lived in as a way to pay off our student debt,” recalls Leah Slicer. “We stayed for 2 years and then moved. We did that three times.” In 2018, they took a bold new step. “My husband decided to flip a house that we didn’t live in.” That led to buying their first investment property. Leah, a stay-at-home mom before real estate, then got licensed to support the investment side of their budding business. One thing led to another. Now Leah has a full-time career on her hands.

“This was just supposed to be a way to support our investment portfolio. Then it started to snowball,” she laughs.

Before real estate, Leah worked in healthcare. After the birth of her second child, she spent six years at home, raising her family. “I joined a team initially, which I recommend to everyone starting out in the industry,” she explains. “I learned countless skills and insights into the market, especially how to be a great agent, because of that time. When you work alongside a successful agent, you’re immersed in the business.”

But Leah has always had a drive to lead. “Ultimately, I think I have that personality where I’m just one of those individuals who wants to lead and be the head of the pack.” In 2021, she left that brokerage and joined Coldwell Banker in January 2021.

Then life threw a curveball. Shortly after joining, her husband was laid off. “We looked at each other. It was a sink-or-swim moment,” Leah remembers. “We decided to run with it.” Together, they began building their business and brand from the ground up.

Leading the Way

Fast-forward to today: Leah leads the Leah Slicer Real Estate Group, a thriving team of three agents who share her vision and values. “It’s going really well,” she says. “My mission from day one has been to grow authentically and organically. That takes time, patience, and trust. Every person on my team came on at the right time, for the right reasons.”

Her team is a reflection of that philosophy. One member specializes in investments and buy-and-hold strategies, another connects deeply with first-time homebuyers, and a third serves as the team administrator, providing the support that keeps everything running smoothly.

So, what’s Leah’s secret to success? “Being authentic and genuine,” she says without hesitation. “People know who I am, and I don’t waver from that. It attracts the clientele I want to work with. My success has also come from repeatedly jumping off the cliffs that are really scary, and just running with it.”

She knows firsthand what it means to take a leap of faith. “When I got licensed, I was cleaning houses every Friday. It was good money, and I was afraid to let go of that. But I knew I had to trust myself and go all in if I wanted my business to grow.”

While many chase the million-dollar listings, Leah finds her greatest joy in helping clients who never thought homeownership was within reach. “Watching someone who once doubted it was possible sign the papers to their very own home - that’s an electric kind of energy I’ll never get tired of.”

That trust paid off. Leah has built a powerhouse business rooted in hard work, strong systems, and meaningful relationships. “This is a marathon, not a sprint. You have to have systems in place to support long-term growth,” she points out. But for Leah, it’s not just the systems—it’s the people that make the difference.

She credits her partnership with Coldwell Banker for giving her the foundation to thrive. “I wouldn’t be where I am without them. I feel supported here.” She’s especially grateful for the incredible leaders and top producers who have poured into her along the way. “Rakesh Ram sat with me in my office to strategize through a tough listing that wasn’t moving. Ron Bisher stepped out of dinner with friends to talk me through a challenging deal. Anna Bisher literally ran into my office and jumped up and down with me when I got my own space. And Megan Stacey met me for coffee to share best practices when I was building my team. Those moments—and those people—are invaluable to me.”

Family + Fun

When not working, Leah savors time with her family. Married for 15 years and mom to three kids, she finds joy in family life, faith, and community. “Our lives revolve around our kids right now, and we’re perfectly happy with that,” she says with a smile.

Disney World is a family favorite, but next year they’re heading out west to the Colorado mountains—one of Leah’s favorite places to slow down and take it all in. “This industry moves fast,” she says. “Traveling gives me the space to reconnect—with myself, my family, and with God—and I’ve found that being in nature always grounds me in the best way.”

When they’re not traveling, weekends are often spent at their lake house in Tennessee or golfing together with her husband whenever time allows. And when it comes to music, Leah never misses a chance to see a concert—especially if Taylor Swift is on stage.

A SPRINT. YOU HAVE TO HAVE
SYSTEMS IN PLACE
TO SUPPORT LONG-TERM GROWTH.”

Purpose + Passion

Faith anchors it all. “Real estate has truly changed our lives. What we’ve been able to accomplish is more than I ever dreamed of—and with that success comes a responsibility to give back to the communities where we live and work.” She’s deeply involved in her community and believes in using her platform for good. “I want to make a positive impact in this industry,” she says. That’s what drives her every single day.

Bold. Faithful. Fearless. Leah Slicer is proving that success doesn’t just come from selling homes. It’s more than that. It comes from building a life that reflects who you are and lifting others as you rise. She’s making an impact here in Cincinnati, helping countless other individuals in the process. With her drive and determination, anything is possible.

Kristin Brockett

with Keller Williams Seven Hills

WRITTEN BY ELIZABETH MCCABE
KRISTA SILZ

Law school or real estate? For Kristin Brockett, her game plan was to go to law school. She was just waiting until her youngest child enrolled in kindergarten. “As it was getting closer, I realized how my time would be affected,” she candidly comments. “I was volunteering with the school, serving as the fundraiser for the PTO, and real estate was a career that allowed some flexibility.”

A stay-at-home mom for 10 years, Kristin made a radical choice. “I decided to get my real estate license instead of law school,” she smiles. “I had no idea I would enjoy it. I thought it would be extra money.”

When she got her license, little did she know that she would have a full-time career in her hands in due time. Best of all, she could still serve in her children’s classroom, serve on the PTO, and be there for her family. It was the best of both worlds. It didn’t take long for “a little extra” to turn into a full-blown career. Kristin began with Coldwell Banker, working as a solo agent for eight years and quickly rising to become one of the top agents in her brokerage. But in true entrepreneur fashion, she began to ask herself, What’s next?

Building Something Bigger

In 2013, Kristin started learning about real estate teams. The concept fascinated her. “I thought it was genius,” she says. “But at the time, I couldn’t find anyone who wanted to do it with me.”

That all changed in 2014 when she attended a continuing education class taught by powerhouse agent and coach Heidi Fore. “She asked me to join her team and help her run it,” Kristin recalls. “She was a rockstar in Louisville; everyone knew who Heidi was.”

Kristin joined Keller Williams in May 2014 and found herself with an incredible mentor right out of the gate. Together, the two women dove into one of Keller Williams’ newest ideas at the time—expansion teams—replicating their success in multiple cities, including Detroit, Asheville, Boca Raton, and even Jamaica.

When Heidi moved her family to Jamaica to work at an orphanage, Kristin was suddenly in charge of keeping the business running. “That experience pushed me to learn everything I could about Keller Williams International,” she says. “It opened my eyes to all the opportunities within the company.”

From Coaching to Leadership

Kristin’s career continued to evolve, but her purpose stayed rooted in helping others succeed. After returning to Northern Kentucky in 2019, she joined Keller Williams Seven Hills in Cincinnati. The moment she walked in, she knew she was in the right place.

Still, something didn’t sit right at first. “The energy wasn’t quite what I wanted,” she recalls. “So I went to my team leader and told her I didn’t think I could stay. She said, ‘Then make it what you want it to be.’ That just blew my mind.”

Kristin took that advice to heart. By early 2020, she had accepted a role as Productivity Coach, right before the world shut down. “New agents were looking to me asking, ‘Now what?’ during COVID,” she says. It was one of the hardest, yet most growth-filled experiences she’s had.

When George Floyd’s death prompted Keller Williams to introduce equity as one of its core beliefs, Kristin immediately stepped up. She chaired the new Social Equity Committee for her market center, an unpaid role, but one that became deeply meaningful. It gave her purpose. Supporting the culture and ensuring that everyone felt represented mattered to her. “It was one of my favorite roles,” she smiles.

From there, her leadership trajectory took off. She began teaching and coaching independently, then running the Top 20% Mastermind for high-performing agents at her office. Her natural leadership, authenticity, and ability to connect with people didn’t go unnoticed.

Team Leader, Vision Builder

In January 2024, Kristin was officially named Team Leader and CEO of Keller Williams Seven Hills Realty. It’s one of the most demanding roles in the company, but Kristin thrives on the challenge.

“I consult with top agents and help them grow their business,” she explains. “My focus is retention, productivity, and profitability.” She was a natural. In her first year, she was ranked #2 in our region for gross agent gain!

That success, she says, comes down to one word: relationships.

“I learned early on that growth happens when you find someone you can trust and get behind their vision,” she says. She doesn’t need to reinvent the wheel. She just needs and Ohio. Together with Heidi, she donates 10% of team profits to help children in foster care and orphanages, supporting boys at Joshua House in Jamaica, among other projects.

"I consult with top agents and help them grow their business. My focus is retention, productivity, and profitability."

Family, Faith, and Fulfillment

Kristin's life outside of real estate is just as full. She and her husband, Mark, share a blended family of five adult children and one grandchild. "We met again after years apart, at a funeral, of all places," she says with a smile. From something tragic came something beautiful.

When they're not traveling, they're often renovating homes, hosting gatherings, or simply enjoying time together. "We like spending time with friends and family. Our kids are all grown and we happen to have a family who likes to hang out with each other," she says. "Every two years, we plan a big family trip. Next August, we're headed to Spain for the eclipse. I can't wait." They are staying at an Airbnb with an open rooftop for the best view of the cosmic wonder. They've seen the last two eclipses together and can't wait for the next one.

For Kristin, leadership isn't about being in charge. Quite the contrary. It's about lighting the way for others to rise. And as she continues to lead with heart, grit, and seeing the best in people, one thing's certain: she's shaping the future of real estate.

to be open, teachable, and willing to go where the opportunity leads. "Even when it's scary," she laughs.

Today, she and her partner still run The River Valley Group, her real estate team based in Louisville, serving clients across Kentucky, Indiana,

HOME INSPECTION SERVICES

Elevating the Industry!

“I am a real estate professional in Greater Cincinnati and have referred Brian Gibbs to my clients for three years. Brian is extremely thorough... he will give you good information to make the best decision about your housing purchase and set proper expectations. I have seen many home inspectors in action, and Brian Gibbs is among the very best.” – Jason Bowman, REALTOR®

“Brian was amazing! He was quick but thorough and made sure that we knew all the details of our inspection. Scheduling was super easy and we got the inspection report back the same night. Thank you so much, Brian!” –Alyssa Henson, Home Buyer

“Brian was super helpful and responsive during our fully remote home inspection. We are moving from NJ to OH. I really appreciated that he took his time to speak to me about all of the defects. Really great responsiveness and overall cost was typical for a home inspection as well. I had the inspection report [the] same night.” –Holly Gunderson, Home Buyer

These are just a handful of rave reviews for Master Home Inspection Services, owned by Brian Gibbs.

"I started my company in 2017," says Brian. But he has decades of experience prior to that. "My family builds houses," he points out. "I've been around the construction industry my entire life." He also went to school at the University of Cincinnati, earning a degree in Architectural Engineering. His construction background, coupled with his expertise in architectural engineering, is invaluable for his clients.

With over 6000 inspections that he has completed personally and 15 years as a home inspector, Brian has the experience that clients deserve. Better yet, he doesn't break deals. "I'm not a scaremonger," he laughs. "I just love giving people information to help them make the best decision on their home." It's that simple to this seasoned inspector.

Inspections are thorough.

"We will get into everything we can without tearing into a wall," he says. Brian and his dedicated team of five home inspectors go the extra mile for clients. "We have a whole process of going through and making sure that everything is in good shape. If something needs attention, I will present that to the buyers." He keeps everything calm and non-emotional.

"My philosophy is that everything is fixable," he says. Even if there are things that are alarming or major issues found during the inspection, Brian and his team simply report the issue, explain what's going on with the buyers and agent and offer guidance for possible fixes. "I let real estate agents guide their clients in the best way that they can." Brian's job is to provide the information that they need.

My family builds houses. I've been around the construction industry my entire life.”

Expect timely reports. Every client receives their inspection report the same evening, and Master Home Inspection Services offers a full suite of additional services, including termite, radon, sewer scope, mold, septic, and pool inspections, making them a true one-stop shop.

As a bonus, Brian also owns a radon mitigation company and a remodeling company, giving clients access to expert guidance on next steps if any issues arise. If an item comes back needing attention, he can help them understand what's involved and point them in the right direction.

Whether inspecting a million-dollar home or a modest first purchase, Brian and his team deliver the same level of care and detail. "We treat every agent and every client the same," he notes. There's no sugarcoating here, just honesty and expertise.

When he's not helping clients, Brian is all about family and sports. He and his wife have been married for 15 years and are proud parents of three children: a 13-year-old son, an 11-year-old daughter, and an 8-year-old daughter. They stay busy with soccer and volleyball games, and Brian himself enjoys playing rec soccer, volleyball, and golf. A die-hard Cincinnati sports fan, he holds season tickets to FC Cincinnati and loves cheering on the home teams.

And when the day winds down? Brian turns to an unexpected hobby: his large LEGO collection. "It's my solace," he laughs. It's his way to relax after a busy day.

With expertise that runs deep and a no-nonsense approach that clients love, Brian Gibbs and Master Home Inspection Services are raising the bar for the entire industry, delivering straight answers, same-day reports, and service that exceeds expectations.
