PREPARATION Creates POWER

How HomeStretch Helps Top Agents Elevate Listings, Protect Margins, and Win More Business

In competitive real estate markets, presentation isn't cosmetic — it's strategic.

For high-performing agents, the difference between an average listing and a premium result often comes down to preparation. But coordinating painters, flooring crews, handymen, cleaners, and timelines can quickly become a drain on time, energy, and reputation.

That's where HomeStretch operates differently.

Founded by Sacha Donovan, HomeStretch The Woodlands was built with one clear mission: to bring executive-level strategy and operational precision to the listing preparation process.

From Fortune 500 Leadership to Market Optimization

With over 25 years of leadership experience, Sacha built his career inside global Fortune 500 companies, including high-tech companies like Microsoft, Oracle, and Nokia.

After years in executive leadership, he partnered with former Microsoft colleague Miguel, united by a shared entrepreneurial vision: build businesses that create tangible impact while maintaining disciplined execution.

A True Extension of the Agent's Business

HomeStretch The Woodlands provides:

- Interior and exterior painting
- Flooring installation and updates
- Cosmetic renovations
- Handyman services
- Move-out and deep cleaning
- Light design guidance
- Strategic refreshes tailored to market expectations

But the real value isn't the services themselves.

It's the simplicity. One point of contact. One coordinated timeline. One accountable team.

Agents no longer need to manage multiple vendors or absorb the stress of missed deadlines. Instead, they gain a partner who understands that speed, communication, and execution directly impact their professional reputation.

Protecting Time. Preserving Reputation.

In real estate, time is leverage.

HomeStretch The Woodlands operates with systems, clarity, and consistent communication — ensuring agents can focus on negotiations, client relationships, and pipeline growth instead of contractor coordination.

The result?

- Listings that show better
- Homes that photograph stronger
- Faster time-to-market
- Cleaner offers
- Reduced friction with sellers

Preparation, when done correctly, becomes a competitive advantage.

Built on Leadership — Grounded in Family

While HomeStretch operates with executive precision, its foundation is family, deeply personal and proudly

HomeStretch The Woodlands is the result.

Not Renovation. Positioning.

HomeStretch The Woodlands doesn't approach projects as "repairs."

They approach them as market positioning exercises.

Before a single paintbrush touches a wall, the conversation centers on:

- What improvements generate return?
- What updates are unnecessary?
- What aligns with neighborhood expectations?
- What protects the seller's margin?
- How quickly can this be executed without sacrificing quality?

This analytical mindset resonates with top-producing agents who understand that every listing is both a brand reflection and a financial asset.

local to The Woodlands and the surrounding areas.

Sacha is the proud father of three sons — Patricio, Liam, and Lucas — and remains actively involved in their sports and school activities. His belief in teamwork, discipline, and preparation extends well beyond business and into daily family life.

Sacha's sons attend McCullough Junior High, and the family is deeply engaged in local school and athletic programs. That connection to the community reinforces HomeStretch's commitment to serving neighbors with integrity, responsiveness, and accountability.

Adding to that family-driven culture, his nephew Henry — a graduate of Kansas State University — works alongside the team, helping bring a true family-business touch to operations. Together, they have built HomeStretch as a locally owned and locally managed company rooted in The Woodlands community.

Outside of work, Sacha enjoys adventure travel and scuba diving — pursuits that reflect his appreciation for challenge, exploration, and calculated risk.

Those same principles guide how he approaches real estate preparation: thoughtful, strategic, forward-looking — and always executed with care.

The Bottom Line

In today's market, preparation isn't optional. It's leverage.

For agents who understand that reputation, efficiency, and client experience are non-negotiable, HomeStretch provides more than renovation support.

It provides a strategic advantage. ◀

Jeanne Eschenfelder

COMPASSION AT THE CORE OF REAL ESTATE

DOTSON WITH

For Jeanne Eschenfelder, real estate is more than transactions and contracts; it's about people, relationships, and guiding clients through some of life's most emotional milestones. With a background rooted in caregiving combined with her lifelong exposure to the industry, Jeanne has built a thriving career defined by empathy and a passion for her community.

Before stepping into real estate, Jeanne graduated with a Bachelor of Science in nursing from Houston Baptist University and dedicated many years to servicing others as a trauma nurse. The fast-paced, high-stakes environment required calm under pressure, sharp decision-making, and, above all, compassion, which are qualities that now define her approach as a REALTOR®. When she transitioned to real estate in 2015, she discovered that the two professions were not as different as they might seem.

"Buying a home is stressful. There are a lot of emotions involved," Jeanne shared. "Clients allow you into a very personal space in their lives, and that's a privilege."

“Buying a home is stressful.

There are a lot of emotions involved. Clients allow you into a very personal space in their lives, and that's a privilege.”

That perspective has shaped her business. Jeanne treats every client with care, often forming lasting friendships long after the transaction ends. “All of my clients become my friends,” she said. “That's what makes this work so meaningful.”

Real estate runs deep in Jeanne's family. Her mother, a single mom and longtime REALTOR®, first inspired her to enter the industry. As a child, Jeanne watched her mother build relationships and successfully navigate deals, often helping in ways that reflected a different era of family involvement. Today, at 86 years old, her mother continues to play an active role as Jeanne's assistant, offering invaluable insight drawn from decades of experience.

“Sometimes when I hit a dead end, she'll offer a new perspective,” Jeanne shared. “She has wisdom and experience you just can't replace.”

Jeanne's brother, a land developer in the Clear Lake area, further reinforces the family's connection to real estate and development. While he focuses on commercial projects, Jeanne has found her passion in residential real estate by helping individuals and families find a place to call home.

At the heart of Jeanne's business is her love for The Woodlands, where she has lived for the past 15 years. A passionate advocate for the community, she enjoys sharing its unique design and character with clients, from the thoughtfully planned villages to the extensive shaded walking paths envisioned by founder George Mitchell.

“The Woodlands is such a special place,” she said. “I love helping people see it the way I do.”

Her firsthand experience living in multiple neighborhoods gives her a well-rounded perspective that benefits relocation clients and longtime residents alike.

Jeanne's success is built on relationships. In 2025, she achieved over $19 million in production, with most of her business coming from repeat clients and referrals. She especially enjoys working with occasional, accidental text to pick up milk on the way home,” she laughed.

Jeanne’s home life is as full as her professional one. Jeanne and her husband, Kevin, have been married for more than 35 years. Kevin’s career in sports broadcasting keeps things exciting. He works with Houston’s professional teams, the Rockets and the Astros, and covers University of Houston athletics, giving Jeanne plenty of opportunities to attend games and events.

Their household is lively, shared with three dogs and four cats, all integral members of the family. Jeanne also enjoys exercising, taking long walks, and exploring new restaurants in The Woodlands. A self-proclaimed foodie, she and Kevin love connecting with others over great meals.

Their son graduated from College Park High School. Their daughter, a graduate of The Woodlands High School, has carved out her own creative path in social media and marketing, even contributing her skills to Jeanne’s business through video content and design work.

Looking ahead, Jeanne remains grounded in gratitude and purpose. Whether she closes $5 million or over $19 million next year, her focus will be the same: serving others with integrity and compassion.

“I’m a Christian and my faith is important to me,” she explained. “What I have is what I’ve been given.”

It’s that mindset, combined with her nurturing spirit and unwavering dedication, that continues to set Jeanne apart, making her not just a trusted real estate professional, but a valued partner in her clients’ lives. ❏ first-time homebuyers, guiding them through the process with patience and clarity.

For Jeanne, communication is key. She remains closely connected with her clients throughout each transaction, often maintaining daily contact and fostering a sense of partnership that extends beyond the closing table.

“It’s a people-oriented business. For 30 to 90 days, you’re in constant communication; you really get to know one another. I even get added to the group family conversation with an

Zoraya Vela

Connecting with People, Connecting with Purpose

WRITTEN BY MEGAN TAYLOR-DICENZO
PHOTOGRAPHY BY JASON DOTSON
WITH DOTSON PHOTOGRAPHY

As the co-leader of a successful real estate team, with the goal of becoming a broker, Zoraya Vela's commitment to real estate is undeniable, and her future is brighter than ever. She's been a bilingual real estate professional for eight years, and her dedication, enthusiasm, and leadership only continue to grow.

Zoraya was born in Mexico and raised in the United States, growing up in the Rio Grande Valley. After high school, she and her boyfriend (now husband) relocated to Houston to begin building their future. While he pursued a career in the medical field, Zoraya initially focused on raising their growing family as a young mother navigating a new city.

It was during this time, while searching for a home in a new construction community, that Zoraya encountered a turning point. She met Linda Hansberger, a real estate professional she credits as a major influence in her life today. Recognizing Zoraya's bilingual skills and natural ability to connect with people, Linda offered her a role as a host. Zoraya accepted, stepping into the world of homebuilding and sales for the first time.

"I loved everything about showing homes," Zoraya remembered. Encouraged by Linda, she soon pursued a sales position, and despite initial doubts about her experience and age, she embraced the opportunity. With mentorship and guidance, she secured a role with a smaller builder in Spring, Texas, where she successfully sold out the gated community. That experience sparked in Zoraya a lasting passion for real estate.

After stepping away from the industry to focus on raising her three children, Zoraya explored other roles that allowed her to engage with people, including a position as a bank teller. However, her interest in real estate never faded. Once her youngest child started school, she made the decision to return to the field, earning her license through Champion School of Real Estate about nine years ago.

From there, Zoraya joined the Doug Erdy Group in Atascocita, where she spent five years building her career. Without an established local network, Zoraya turned to social media as an opportunity to connect with others. Today, 80 to 90 percent of her clients originate from her online presence, a testament to her vibrant personality and passion for the field.

As Zoraya's visibility online grew, so did the demand for her guidance. Fellow agents began reaching out for mentorship, prompting Zoraya to consider a new direction. In 2024, she transitioned to Vive Realty, a boutique brokerage that supported her vision of building a team. With their assistance, she and her business partner Heather Groom established the legal and operational framework necessary to launch their own group.

In February 2024, Zoraya and Heather Co-Founded Got Keys? Realty Team. By the summer of that year, the team expanded organically to 19 agents, many drawn through Zoraya's social media presence and reputation, and Heather's natural coaching and expanded knowledge in RealEstate. Today, the team includes 23 agents, with plans to transition into brokerage ownership. The Got Keys? Realty Team's performance reflects its momentum. Between January and May 2025 alone, Got Keys? Realty Team closed $20 million in sales.

Her success has not gone unnoticed. Zoraya has earned multiple accolades, including being named a Top Real Estate Influencer in 2025 and earning recognition as one of the Top Latin Realtors in the nation in 2024. Yet, for Zoraya, the most rewarding aspect of her work remains the human connection. She thrives in client interactions, particularly buyer consultations and home showings, while admitting that administrative tasks are her least favorite part of the job.

Zoraya's leadership extends beyond her team. In 2024, she served as president of the NorthHouston chapter of the National Association of Hispanic Real Estate Professionals (NAHREP), further demonstrating her commitment to supporting and elevating others in the industry.

In addition to her professional accomplishments, Zoraya remains deeply grounded in her personal life. She has been married for 21 years, and she and her husband have three children: one in college, one in high school, and one in middle school. Outside of work, she enjoys spending time with her family, watching movies with her husband, and cheering on the Dallas Cowboys as a dedicated season ticket holder.

For Zoraya, real estate is more than a career; it's a passion, a full-time commitment, and a pastime. "Real estate is fun," she said, a simple statement that captures the enthusiasm driving her continued success. ▀
